* indicates that Contemporary European Studies Department approval is required to use the indicated special topics course to fulfill a major requirement.

New courses may be added to this list annually, as the Center for European Studies funds their development. An updated list of approved courses may be obtained from the Contemporary European studies Web site (www.unc.edu/euro). Other courses relevant to the study of contemporary Europe may be taken for credit in the major, if approved by the curriculum advisor.

Contemporary European Studies majors are required to complete a minimum of six levels of a western European language, or document sixth-semester proficiency through university placement tests. One approved literature course taught in the language may also count as a Theme III requirement if listed under the theme course listings above. Majors are strongly encouraged to apply their language proficiency skills in languages across the curriculum (LAC) courses and complete a UNC-approved study abroad program in the target language.

Advising

In addition to the guidance provided by the primary academic advisors in Steele Building, Contemporary European studies majors receive individualized advising at all stages of academic planning, including considering courses, internships, study abroad options, graduate programs, and career paths. Students interested in pursuing a major in contemporary European studies are encouraged to meet with the curriculum advisor as early as possible in their undergraduate career to design a comprehensive and efficient course plan and take full advantage of study abroad and other international education opportunities. Consult the curriculum Web site for further information on courses, funding awards, and campus resources.

Honors

The Curriculum in Contemporary European Studies does not offer an honors program. Students who wish to pursue an honors thesis are advised to do so in association with a double major in a non-interdisciplinary department.
