UNC-Chapel Hill believes all admitted students can thrive in college, graduate, and grow into lifelong learners.

We believe student success includes:

1. Exploring & growing intellectually
2. Appreciating diverse perspectives as well as developing one's own identity
3. Developing social & emotional skills
4. Engaging in meaningful activities, roles, & relationships
5. Cultivating a sense of purpose or vocation

Encouraging Student Success

Success is likely in an environment that:

1. Fosters self-advocacy & resiliency
2. Promotes a growth mindset understanding of intelligence
3. Affirms cultural identities & advances inclusive excellence
4. Encourages academic excellence, integrity, & leadership
5. Demonstrates concern for the well-being of the whole student

UNC-Chapel Hill wants every student to make steady academic progress and graduate on time. But success does not look the same for every student. There are different pathways to success.

WE BELIEVE STUDENTS SUCCEED WHEN THEY:

• Take full advantage of the breadth and depth of our curriculum
• Set academic and personal goals
• Take responsibility for their education, choices, & decisions

Undergraduate student success advances higher learning and discovery as well as individual competency development and academic achievement.
Excellence in Action
Focusing on purposeful skill development to maximize student learning and success...

What is Excellence in Action?
Excellence in Action is an initiative to support purposeful engagement with the Carolina community. EIA provides the tools and support students need to identify meaningful opportunities, track experiences, and demonstrate skill development. The framework supports students in achieving a core set of 21st century skills, a deeper understanding of the University and themselves, and clear language to market skills developed through curricular and co-curricular engagement at Carolina.

Mission
Excellence in Action is a framework designed to help students track and reflect on meaningful experiences to foster their learning and success in and after Carolina.

Goals
1. To facilitate intentional student engagement across the University to support the development of Dynamic Learning, Honor, Personal Responsibility, and Community Engagement.
2. To engage students in the process of building a co-curricular transcript to organize, contextualize, and make meaning of diverse learning experiences.

CONNECTCAROLINA:
QUICK REFERENCE FOR REGISTRATION

Note: In June, you will notice enhancements to your ConnectCarolina Student Center that may slightly change the look of the screenshots shown on these Registration and Tar Heel Tracker pages. Therefore, these pages may look different when you are getting ready to enroll. Please refer to registrar.unc.edu/registration/registration-guide throughout the summer for up-to-date information, and remember to check this website before your enrollment date so you are prepared when your enrollment appointment starts. The University Registrar's Office provides enrollment support during orientation registration sessions and contact information can be found at registrar.unc.edu/registration/registration-support.

Logging in to ConnectCarolina
1. Go to connectcarolina.unc.edu
2. Click on the Login to ConnectCarolina Student Center link.
3. Log in with your Onyen and password.

Note: ConnectCarolina is also on mobile. Go to mobile.unc.edu for more information on CarolinaGo. For the best first-time registration experience, the desktop version of ConnectCarolina is recommended.

If this does not work, or if you've forgotten your password, you can go to itsapps.unc.edu/improv and click on the Reset Lost or Forgotten Password link under Onyen Password Management.

Schedule Planner

As a best practice, we recommend utilizing the Schedule Planner class search tool for enrollment during New Student Orientation registration sessions. This will allow you to view sections of classes with seats reserved for your specific registration session.

1. Access Schedule Planner from your main Student Center page, by clicking the Schedule Planner link on the left side.

2. Use the CLICK HERE button to launch Schedule Planner. Your main Student Center page will remain open in another window. Note: You will need to allow pop-ups from this site.

3. Once in Schedule Planner, note the various search options. Select Course Status of Open & Full w/ Waitlist Open to look for sections that either have seats available or have waitlist seats available.
4. Add classes by subject and course number by selecting both from the drop-down lists, and then review the course information and click to see the courses populate to the right.

5. Note that you can select courses by Course Attribute to narrow down your search for courses that will fulfill general education requirements.

6. Once you have selected courses, click the icon to go back to the main Schedule Planner page and generate potential schedules by leaving all courses selected and clicking the option at the bottom of the page, which will return schedules matching your criteria.

7. Click View on schedules to see potential options, scrolling through the Schedules by clicking the arrows to the left and right.

8. Lock in classes (or class/related recitation combinations) by clicking the padlock.

9. Important! Be sure to click the information icon to view reserve capacities (restrictions) on classes as well as notes and any consent required to enroll. If selecting a class with seats being held for New Student Orientation, be sure to select a section that has seats available for your specific registration session. See the Reserve Caps section to ensure your registration session matches up to open seats. In this example 0 of 10 means that there are still 10 open seats per group. Once that changes to 10 of 10 it will mean that those seats are all taken and you should continue looking for a different section of the class or a different class.

10. When done, click the button.

11. Click OK to be transferred to your Shopping Cart.

12. Next, click Course Enrollment from this page:

13. From Plan > Shopping Cart, click the button and your classes from Schedule Planner will populate your Shopping Cart.

Instructions continue on Page 32
Searching for Classes

Note: Utilizing Schedule Planner is recommended for beginning your schedule and reviewing reserve capacities specific to sections with seats being held for your registration session. You may also utilize the Class Search from your Shopping Cart for additional classes.

1. From the Student Center home page, click the enrollment shopping cart link.

2. Click the Class Search button under the Find Classes area.

3. Click the search button to go to the Class Search page.

4. Uncheck the checkbox to view all sections of the class, even if they are currently closed.

5. Enter the Course Subject and the Course Number (if known). If the Course Subject is not known, click the green select subject button for a listing of subjects. If the Course Number is not known, click the Course Number drop down to try using the less than or equal to option, or trying using Additional Search Criteria.

6. Click the SEARCH button to perform the search.

7. From the Search Results page, review the search results, including the class notes. If the class status shows a green circle, the class has open seats. If the status shows a blue square, the class is full without a waitlist option. If the status shows a yellow triangle, the class has a waitlist.

Note: When using the Class Search from your Shopping Cart, it is important to view any class notes that are placed on a class, as they may contain information on restrictions for the class or additional information. Best practice is to review classes in Schedule Planner to see the reserve capacity information.

To view the class notes, click on the Section link for the class (ex: Section 002-Lec(125441)), and look under the Class Notes heading.

There are additional features available on the Search for Classes page that may be helpful when looking for classes. For example, the Search By Class Attribute section will allow you to search for classes that fulfill General Education requirements. The Additional Search Criteria section can be used to look for classes that meet on certain days/times and will help you narrow down your results if you get an error message that your search exceeded the maximum limit.

When looking at class search results, be sure to click the link to see all available sections.
Adding Classes to Shopping Cart

1. From the Search Results page, locate the class you wish to add to your Shopping Cart, and click the select class button.

   Note: Click the View All Sections link to see all available results.

2. If the class has a related recitation or component, you will be prompted to select one now. Click the Next button to proceed.

3. The Enrollment Preferences page will present a summary of course information. Check the Wait list if class is full checkbox if you wish to waitlist for the class if it is full. Click the Next button to proceed.

4. Once you have successfully added the class to your shopping cart, you’ll get a message letting you know the class has been added.

   ![Message: HIST 127 has been added to your Shopping Cart.]

Important: This does not mean you’re enrolled in the class or guaranteed a spot in the class. It just means that the class has been added to your shopping cart for future enrollment attempts.

Enrolling in Classes

Navigate to Plan > shopping cart when getting ready for your enrollment appointment to begin. Select your classes and be ready to click enroll and the finish enrolling button. Be sure you have imported all classes from Schedule Planner before proceeding.

If you want to select specific classes to try and enroll in first, you can use the Plan > shopping cart tab.

1. From the Plan > shopping cart tab, you can select the classes you want to try to enroll in first by placing check marks in the Select boxes.

2. Click on the enroll button, confirm your classes, and click the finish enrolling button.

If you wish to try and enroll in everything in your shopping cart, knowing that the enrollment processor will attempt the enrollments first alphabetically and then numerically, you can navigate to the Enroll > add tab.

1. From the Enroll > add tab, all the classes in your shopping cart will be selected, and you can delete any you do not want to enroll in by clicking on the garbage can icon.

2. When you are satisfied with your classes, click on the finish enrolling button.

3. Review your classes and click the finish enrolling button.

   Important: For either method, Enroll > add or Plan > shopping cart, you’ll want to follow through with all steps until you receive the View Results page:

   - If the Status shows ☑, it means that you were successfully enrolled in the class.
   - If the Status shows ✗, you were not enrolled and need to look at the error message for more information.

The error messages may tell you that the class is full, requires department/instructor consent, available seats are reserved, or would result in a time conflict, etc.

If you need more information on a class, you may contact the teaching department for the class.

To continue with your enrollment, click ADD ANOTHER CLASS.

Dropping a Class

1. To drop a class, navigate to the Enroll > drop tab.

2. Next, select the class that you wish to drop, and click the drop selected classes button.

3. You will be asked to confirm your selection, and then can click the finish dropping button.

4. Please review your results.

   - If the Status shows ☑, the class was dropped.
   - If the Status shows ✗, read the error message to understand why the class was not dropped.

Instructions continue on Page 34
Editing a Class

The Enroll > edit tab can be used to change a recitation of an enrolled class, or change the number of credits on an enrolled variable credit class.

To edit a class, you’ll want to select the class from the drop down menu on the Enroll > edit tab.

Only the classes that are editable are displayed in the list. Once you select the class, click on the button.

- If the class has a recitation, you will see the list of the associated recitations. Remember to click the View All Sections link to see all of the recitations available. Select the new recitation and click the NEXT button.

Waitlisting a Class

To waitlist for a class, follow instructions for searching for a class, and be sure to uncheck the Show Open Classes Only checkbox to see the classes that are already full.

1. Click the button from the Search Results page. You can see if a waitlist is available if the Status shows ▲.

2. From the Enrollment Preferences screen, check the Wait list if class is full check box and then click the NEXT button to add the class to your shopping cart.

3. Select the class, and finish the steps for enrolling.

Note: If you receive a ▲ for the Status, the request went through successfully. Otherwise, you will get a ✗ with a message as to why the request was not completed.

If the number of credits on a variable credit class needs to be updated, that can be done on the next Enrollment Preferences screen. Otherwise, click the NEXT button.

You will be asked to confirm your selection, and then can click the Finish Editing button.

If you receive a ▲ for the Status, the request went through successfully. Otherwise, you will get a ✗ with a message as to why the request was not completed.

- If the class was full with a waitlist available, the system will drop you from your enrolled lecture/recitation combination and place you on the waitlist for that same lecture/new recitation combination.
Swapping a Class

The Swap feature will allow you to swap one class for another class. If you do not get into the second class, you will still have your seat in the first class.

Note: To change a recitation section of a class, see the Editing a Class section.

1. Go to Enroll > swap (see FIG. 13) and select the class you wish to swap out of from the drop down menu under the Swap This Class section (see FIG. 14).

2. Choose the class you want to enroll in from the With This Class section, by choosing a class from the Class Search or one that is already in your shopping cart.

3. After the Swap This Class and With This Class sections are completed, you can click the select button.

4. You will be asked to confirm your selection, and then will click the button.

5. From the View Results page, you’ll receive a o if the request goes through (and you were dropped from your Swap This Class option and enrolled in your With This Class option), or a x and error message if it does not go through and you remain in your Swap This Class option.

Shopping Cart Appointments

Shopping Cart Appointments allow you to validate certain aspects of one or more classes in your shopping cart to help you plan your schedule.

This validation feature will help check for potential problems with registration, such as:

- Time conflicts
- Pre-requisites and co-requisites
- Department or instructor permission

When the Validate button appears in your Enrollment Shopping Cart (Plan > Shopping Cart), you know that your Shopping Cart Appointment is active and can validate your classes.

Important: Shopping Cart Appointments do not check for reserve capacities on classes. Be sure to utilize Schedule Planner for this or review the class notes section when searching for classes from your Shopping Cart directly.

After you enroll, we recommend running your Tar Heel Tracker from the Other Academics drop-down menu. Please refer to the next section on Tar Heel Tracker for more information. For additional information on your ConnectCarolina Student Center, Schedule Planner, and registration, visit the University Registrar’s website at registrar.unc.edu/registration/registration-guide.
What is Tar Heel Tracker?

- Provides a real-time look at degree, General Education, major, and minor requirements.
- Allows students to click the description of the class needed to see if the class is scheduled, when it meets, and who the instructor is.
- Provides students with the ability to search courses by requirement, go directly from a list of required courses, and place the courses into the enrollment shopping cart.

Types of Reports

Tar Heel Tracker: A report that tracks your progress toward your degree. This report allows you to see what courses fulfill your requirements, pick the section of the course you want, and add it directly to your shopping cart.

What-If: Allows you to run a What-If tracker report to show what your courses and requirements would look like if you changed your major, added a second major or minor, or if you just wanted to see where a course would fall if you enrolled in it.

Plan By My Requirements: Allows you to add courses to your planner by your specific requirements and also indicates courses already in your planner with a blue star icon.
Tar Heel Tracker allows you to click on the description link of the course needed to satisfy the requirement.

Clicking on the description link provides you with information including a full description of the course, what general education requirements the course will meet, as well as the option to view available sections or add the course to your planner.

After you have chosen the section of the course that fits into your schedule you can then add the course directly to your enrollment shopping cart.

Instructions continue on Page 38
The What-If Report allows you to create scenarios such as changing a major or adding a second major or minor by choosing the program scenario option. This is a useful tool to see what requirements you will satisfy if you change your major or add an additional major or minor.

The What-If course scenario allows you to see where individual courses will fall into your Tar Heel Tracker. These courses are indicated by a ? icon to show that it is a What-If course.

Additional information about the Tar Heel Tracker can be found at the University Registrar’s website at registrar.unc.edu/academic-services/tar-heel-tracker.

Safety at Carolina: A Shared Responsibility
Carolina is committed to campus safety. The Department of Public Safety (DPS) employs a staff of sworn officers that hold the same authority as city police officers and sheriff’s deputies, a detective team, bike patrols, a community response unit that focuses on issues such as larceny reduction and pedestrian safety, a silent witness program, and mutual aid agreements with off-campus law enforcement agencies.

Visit the DPS website at dps.unc.edu for campus call box information and locations, campus lighted corridor pedestrian-friendly map, personal safety classes, safety tips, resources for reporting crimes, and crime reports and surveys.

Tar Heel Campus Safety Expectations and Responsibilities
Campus safety is a shared responsibility. Every student has a role in making UNC-CH a safe campus community.

Use good judgment and trust your instincts. Never assume that just because a friend may know someone that you are safe with that person. If something does not feel safe, it probably is not. When in doubt, call 9-1-1.

Secure your valuables. Avoid leaving backpacks, laptops, and personal items unattended. Make sure your electronics (cell phones, computers, and tablets) are equipped with a security app that can be downloaded. Several different apps, available free of charge, can assist with recovering stolen property.

Be careful online. Never share passwords associated with your ONYEN, Facebook, etc. Avoid posting and sharing personal information that could be used to identify you or locate you offline. Report any unwanted or inappropriate communications to the Department of Public Safety (DPS). Remember that anything you send anyone electronically can be shared. Once it’s on the internet, there’s no taking it back.

Think before you drink. Alcohol impairs decision-making skills. People under the influence often take risks a sober person would not. Impaired people are more likely to become crime victims. Never drink and drive, accept a ride from anyone under the influence, or walk home alone. Call a cab or a friend or ride the Point-to-Point Express (P2P) shuttle. Visit move.unc.edu/p2p for the P2P schedule and hours.

Be aware of your surroundings and never walk alone at night. Bike or jog during the day, vary your route, and go with a friend. Avoid headphones, which can impede awareness. At night, walk with a group, stay on the lighted path, and walk briskly. Never stay in one spot if you feel you are being followed. If anyone approaches you that makes you feel uncomfortable, keep walking and call 9-1-1.

Pay attention coming home and have your key ready. Before you reach the door, have your key or flex pass ready. On an elevator, stand near the control panel and use the emergency alarm button if necessary. Note the condition of your home as you approach and before entering. If something appears out of the ordinary, leave immediately and call 9-1-1.

Do not let unaccompanied non-residents (tailgaters) into the residence halls. Outside doors of campus residence halls are locked 24 hours a day to keep out people who do not belong. Do not defeat this safety measure by holding the door open for the person behind you (tailgating). Keep your residence secure at all times. Never leave your residence unsecured at any time.

If you See Something, Say Something. Share your safety concerns with a Resident Advisor (RA), with DPS, or with someone you can trust. When in doubt, call 9-1-1. Always file a report with DPS if a crime has occurred.

Use Campus Safety resources.
- Emergency Call Boxes are located across campus on black poles with blue lights on top. University police respond to the call box location as soon as the call box is activated, even if you do not speak. Visit dps.unc.edu for more information.
- SafeWalk provides a male-female pair of DPS-trained student walkers to accompany students 11:00 PM – 3:00AM, Sunday – Thursday. Students may request a walk by calling 919-962-SAFE (7233) or submitting a ticket online at safewalk.unc.edu. SafeWalk serves all on-campus locations, Granville Towers, and all fraternity and sorority houses. Coverage also extends to off-campus locations—visit safewalk.unc.edu for details.

ALERT CAROLINA: A SAFETY AWARENESS CAMPAIGN FOR THE CAMPUS COMMUNITY

At Carolina, we are committed to providing the safest campus environment we can for our entire campus community.

The Alert Carolina safety awareness campaign (alertcarolina.unc.edu) is an important part of that commitment. The campaign educates the campus about what to do in an emergency and where to find safety-related resources. A key part of Alert Carolina involves having students, faculty, and staff with cell phones that have text message capability sign up for emergency alerts.

The University will inform the campus as quickly as possible when an emergency happens or we learn of a threat affecting the safety and welfare of the campus community. Alert Carolina is the best source for current information before, during, and after an emergency. It helps people know what to do, who to contact for help, and where to find information and resources.

Remember, though, that it may take time in an emergency for authorities to investigate a situation, verify the facts, and provide the campus with instructions. People should not call 911 or the University’s Department of Public Safety for general information. The Alert Carolina website (alertcarolina.unc.edu) will provide new details as quickly as possible.

Emergency Sirens and Text Messages

Emergency sirens and text messaging allow the University to share information quickly. The sirens are designed primarily to be heard by people outside on campus, not in buildings or cars, and text messages are an effective way to reach people inside quickly.

The sirens will only sound for a significant emergency or dangerous situation involving an immediate threat to health or safety—or during a test. When the sirens sound, other than during a test, people should be prepared to go inside immediately. The sirens also will broadcast brief announcements with instructions. When the threat is over, the sirens will sound with a different tone and an “all clear” message.

In an emergency, the University also will send a text message alert to students, faculty, and staff who have registered the numbers of cell phones with text message capability in the online campus directory.
Emergency Notification System

University officials continually evaluate and refine the most effective ways to communicate with the campus community. The University uses four types of notifications based on criteria in the Alert Carolina System Protocols: Emergency Warnings, Timely Warnings, and Informational and Adverse Weather Messages. Information, including possible situations for each notification, is included on the Alert Carolina website (alertcarolina.unc.edu).

- An Emergency Warning is issued if there is a significant emergency or immediate threat to the health or safety of people on campus. The emergency sirens will sound to alert people that they need to act now, followed by a text message.

- A Timely Warning is issued when it’s necessary to tell people to be cautious because of a continuing danger affecting the campus community and notification will not compromise law enforcement efforts. The University will send a text message, but the emergency sirens will not sound.

- An Informational Message is issued to advise people to be aware of a particular situation that is not an emergency and does not pose an immediate or continuing threat to the campus community. The University will send a campus-wide email message.

- An Adverse Weather Message is issued when a tornado watch or severe thunderstorm warning is issued by the National Weather Service for Orange County, or when other circumstances exist that do not represent an immediate threat to health or safety, but action may enable people to protect themselves and/or their property. The University will send a campus-wide email message as well as other communications when needed.

Other Ways to Communicate Key Information

The University also will communicate by campus email, the Adverse Weather and Emergency Phone Line for recorded information (919-843-1234), the University Access Channel (Chapel Hill Time Warner Cable Channel 4), campus cable television channels, campus or local media, and official University Twitter and Facebook accounts (which also activate social media for the Office of New Student & Carolina Parent Programs and the Department of Public Safety).

CONTINUING YOUR TRANSITION: TRANSFER STUDENT RESOURCES

Transfer students are an integral part of the culture at Carolina—bringing backgrounds and experiences that enrich the entire campus. Although transfer students are familiar with the college environment, there are similarities and differences to navigating Carolina compared to students’ previous institutions. The University offers distinct programs and opportunities designed specifically for transfer students to acclimate to the Carolina community.

Tar Heel Transfers

Tar Heel Transfers (THT), a student-run organization, gives transfer students a deeper connection to campus and each other through fun and exciting social events. Past transfer students plan events and programs to help new transfer students meet each other and get more involved with student life. For more information, visit nscpp.unc.edu and select Transfer Students.

T-Links

T-Links mentors serve as a resource for easing the transition of new transfer students. All new transfer students are assigned a T-Link mentor; be on the lookout for emails from your T-Link mentor throughout the summer months. Opportunities to meet your T-Link mentor and establish connections with other new transfer students will occur during the Week of Welcome (WOW) and early fall. T-Links will provide first-hand insight and strategies for making a smooth transition to Carolina. For more information, visit nscpp.unc.edu and select Transfer Students.

The Insider: A Transfer Student’s Guide to Carolina
